European Association for International Education

Exciting EAIE Executive Forum on Innovation in higher education

The European Association for International Education (EAIE) cordially invites senior policy staff to participate in the second EAIE Executive Forum, 'Innovation in higher education - what research agenda is needed?', which will be held on Friday 29 February at the Freie Universität Berlin in Germany. The deadline for registration is 18 January 2008. Cost for attending is EUR 100, including lunch and refreshments.

The aim of this seminar is to help senior policy staff in higher education, such as rectors, vice-rectors for academic and international affairs, deans, senior policy staff at ministries of education and in intermediate organisations, researchers and PhD students be prepared to face a rapidly changing global higher education environment.

The Forum will discuss the link between research and practice in the internationalisation of higher education with input from different stakeholders. The discussions will be led by Hanneke Teekens, Director Communication at Nuffic and Chair of the Association for studies in International Education, The Netherlands and Hans de Wit, Dean at Windesheim Honours College and Editor of the Journal of Studies in International Education, The Netherlands. They will be joined by a range of international speakers providing short provocative introductions followed by ample space for debate.

For all details, please visit the EAIE website at www.eaie.org/PD/ExecutiveForum/2008/.

The Executive Forum

The Executive Forum was created by the EAIE Training Committee and was launched during the 19th Annual EAIE Conference in Trondheim, Norway. Its aim is to provide professionals at management and strategic levels of internationalisation with the latest findings concerning hot topics in international education. The Executive Forums are offered as one-day intensive seminars. The Forum on 'Innovation in higher education - what research agenda is needed?' is supported by the Association for Studies in International Education and its Journal of Studies in International Education
