

PRESS RELEASE

16 May 2006

European Association for International Education

The EAIE offers two new professional training courses this fall

The European Association for International Education (EAIE) announces two new and exciting training courses on the 2006 programme:

- Implementing exchange programmes; 8 to 11 November in Gent, Belgium
- How to run an international office; 29 November to 1 December in Tilburg, The Netherlands

Every year, the EAIE organises a wide selection of training courses for international education professionals who are interested in extending their knowledge, improving specific skills, enhancing their career opportunities and meeting international colleagues in order to exchange ideas and make new contacts.

In addition to organising new courses, the EAIE is also offering re-runs of successful 2005 courses:

- Negotiating successfully in international relations; 8 to 10 June in St Gallen, Switzerland
- Turning ambitions into results: how to recruit the best students for your institution; 29 June to 1 July in Barcelona, Spain
- English in the international workplace; 3 to 7 July in Dublin, Ireland
- Making international education work on campuses; 26 to 28 October in Barcelona, Spain
